About the Author

Stephanie Parwulski firmly believes that when words are used positively, they have the power to touch others deeply. Because of her lifelong love of children's literature, Stephanie is excited for her authorial debut. Beatrice and the Sunflower Gift is her first children's book, and she looks forward to writing more! Stephanie gathers inspiration from reading, singing, and gardening. She enjoys spending time with her family and friends and going on adventures. Stephanie lives in Buffalo, NY, working as a preschool aide and writing mental health articles for "The Mighty."

About the Illustrator

Tania Ramírez Cuevas is an illustrator born in Mérida Yucatán, México. She studied for a degree in graphic design in her hometown, and after a year of working as a graphic designer she decided to be a professional illustrator since her passion has always been drawing. Working mostly as a freelance illustrator, Tania specializes in children's illustration, cartoon, character design and webcomics. She has her own webcomic called "Un Gato en la Ciudad" ("A Cat in the City"), where she shares her personal experiences and views of life in the cities of México. Tania has also worked giving conferences and drawing classes for teenagers and adults.
