

The Lonely Daffodil

Story by Emily Langhorne

Illustrations by Heather Heyworth

One day, when a farmer is planting daffodils at the top of a hill, one of the bulbs slips from the basket, rolls down the hill, and lands at the forest's edge. While there, the daffodil befriends many different creatures, but he can't help feeling lonely each night when he hears the other daffodils singing together at the top of the hill. The daffodil longs to join in, but when the other daffodils refuse to let him, he must find a different way to use his voice.

About the Author

Emily Langhorne lives in Dublin, Ireland. She grew up in Tidewater, Virginia (a region famous for its daffodils). Her writing has been featured in The Washington Post, The Hill, Forbes, and elsewhere. She loves sloths, traveling, being outdoors, playing bridge, and spending time with her husband. The Lonely Daffodil is her first picture book.

About the Illustrator

Heather Heyworth lives and works in a Suffolk market town in the UK. After graduating from Goldsmiths College, London University, she went on to become creative manager within a busy London design studio and then art editor at a large greeting card publisher. Her introduction into the world of children's books started with illustrating, designing, and co-publishing her own licensed character books. She wrote and illustrated her first picture book in 2009.
