Pirates and Spooks, BEWARE!

Shiver me timbers! Pirates and parrots, mummies and mermaids-get ready for these fun and funky creatures to tickle your funny bone and send a chill down your spine! Between the lines of these eerie poems, a lady pirate fights her battles in stolen ball gowns, a cannibal decides to become a vegetarian, and a ghost hitches a ride in the family car. You'd better get started: it's all hands on deck!

About the Author

Susan Weiner loves children's literature because ordinary rules do not apply, and anything can happen! Susan went to college in both England and America, but did her graduate study in history at UCLA. There, she kindled a passion for life and culture in the seventeenth century, especially in Great Britain. It was with great delight that, some years later, she began a book of pirate poems based on her studies. These days, Susan lives in Maryland near the Potomac River with one cat and many books.

About the Illustrator

Bobbie Kogok is an artist, illustrator, and children's book author. She has been painting and drawing since childhood. Recently, Bobbie has started creating her art on an iPad in an effort to save paper. In addition to illustrating for other authors, she has illustrated her own books, The Moon, the Star, and the Firefly; If I Only Had a Penny; and Percival Pig Finds His Manners.
